The readings for the 30th Sunday in Ordinary Time Year A focus on love. The first reading teaches care for the vulnerable, and the Gospel says the greatest commandment is to love God and love others. Jesus explains that all laws are based on these two commandments.

Loving God means more than just prayers or worship. It means following His ways and caring for others. Love is not just a feeling—it is a choice and an action. It means treating people with kindness, fairness, and respect.

The first reading mentions widows, orphans, and foreigners. These were the most vulnerable people in ancient times. Today, there are many who are struggling—people without homes, those facing discrimination, or those who are lonely. Loving them means more than feeling sorry for them. It means helping in real ways.

It teaches that love is active. Loving God and loving others go together. If people truly love God, they will show it by caring for those in need. It is also a call to live with love and fairness. Faith should shape how people treat others, especially those who are vulnerable. Loving God means caring for those in need and making choices that reflect justice and kindness. These readings remind people that faith is not just about words but about real actions that make a difference.

PRACTICAL INFO…

When you are receiving Holy Communion on the hand, please consume it immediately while you are in front of the minister. Do not take it with you to your seat. For those who are not receiving Communion, you are welcome to come forward for a blessing. This is to be indicated by placing one or both arms on your chest. Parents you are responsible to ensure your child indicates clearly that they are to receive a blessing. If the priest or the Eucharistic Minister are unsure they will give a blessing.

When coming to Church, we need to dress appropriately as we are in a place of worship. Please make sure that you not wearing anything with a low neckline, sleeveless garments which expose the shoulders, clothing that exposes the knees or upper legs (whether sitting or standing), clothing that exposes the stomach or back, or clothing made of see-through material; also avoid excessively tight clothing.
