Gospel Reflection

Our readings this week challenge the idea that success can only be measured by wealth and possessions. The gospel story of the foolish rich man makes clear what becomes of those who store up treasure for themselves rather than making themselves rich in what matters to God. The rich man, looking forward to years of plenty and taking things easy, does not know that he is going to die that very night, leaving everything behind him.

Jesus is telling us that we should not prioritise the accumulation of wealth during our lives but he is also teaching us that we should look to become rich "in the sight of God". We are called to move away from the accumulation of material wealth and towards fuller trust in God who made us in his image and likeness and renews us in that image through Jesus Christ. This is a process which St. Paul in our second reading refers to as putting on "the new self", which progresses towards the truth the more "it is renewed in the image of its creator".

With many people struggling to make ends meet at this time, those of us who have more will be invited to reflect on what we might be able to do to help those who are in serious need. We are challenged not to be like the man in the gospel who thinks only of building bigger and bigger barns to store his goods, without even considering sharing some of his wealth with the less fortunate.

This does not mean that prosperity is necessarily bad: on the contrary it is a blessing. However, it must never become our main aim in life, lest in our attachment to material things we turn away from the one who is the source of all prosperity and goodness.

"I ask you to ensure that humanity is served by wealth and not ruled by it". (Pope Francis)
