"It was pointed out to me recently that a more accurate translation of this Jubilee motto is that we are 'Pilgrims into Hope'. In the framework of our faith, the deeper meaning of hope is that its fulfilment actually lies ahead. True hope lies in a firm and unshakeable hope for heaven. In this regard, hope is the daughter of faith and, ultimately, we set our course through life by this faith and hope. Our journey, our pilgrimage through life, can be tough. Often the burdens we carry, be they physical illness, or a suffering of the heart, are not broadcast. We carry them quietly…"
