DEADLINE!

The parable of the mustard seed seems pretty straight forward at first glance, but as always there is more to it than first meets the eye. Jesus did not compare the Kingdom of God to a majestic tree. There is an ancient text which forbade planting mustard seeds in Palestinian gardens because the shrub takes over wherever it is planted. It is wild, gets out of control, and attracts unwanted birds. The kingdom of God grows from something small to something large, but more than that, its growth is overwhelming and it will grow even where it is not wanted. It has been compared to kudzu, a wild vine that could blanket entire mountain areas, smother trees, even crack cement buildings.

People of Jesus' time may have preferred the image of the lofty 'cedars of Lebanon' to explain God's kingdom, where the nations could build nests like the eagles do. Now that image may have been more attractive to Jesus' listeners, more in keeping with their image of the kingdom. Mustard plants however, only stand a few feet tall. Jesus is turning the ideals of power and triumph on their head again. The image we have here is of the birds who find a home in this little shrub, which cannot be curtailed. It will grow even where it is not wanted. In looking for the signs of God' activity around us we may look for what is big and impressive, maybe we need to look for what is small and seemingly insignificant, and is such simple signs we will get a glimpse of the 'mustard seed' kingdom quietly growing.
