+ 6TH SUNDAY OF EASTER – YEAR B

Greater love has no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. (John 15.13)

'Love' is a very emotive word everybody seems to 'know' what it is, and is happy to hear and to say it. To a whole lot of people, it is a profoundly tender, passionate affection that makes people feel good in themselves, and comfortable and happy with another, a feeling of warm personal attachment someone may experience either from or towards another. As a feeling, it can be positive or negative. Positively, it pulls people together and fosters their interpersonal relationships. Negatively, it can lead to self-absorption, infatuation, or obsession which is unhealthy for everyone. Love also evokes the idea of altruistic, practical concern someone has for another and is expressed through acts of compassion and kindness. In this sense, it is more than a feeling, and does not depend on how we feel; it is a choice we make concerning someone. It does not aim at our own wellbeing, but at that of another. It tends to be both sweet and bitter – sweet, because of the wellbeing it generates; bitter, for it comes at a cost, often a very huge cost. It may require the one who loves to endure great inconveniences and make very big sacrifices; but it also generates fulfilment in the one who freely and cheerfully loves. In Our Lord's case, the cost included His most painful Passion and death on the Cross – a price that He paid of His own accord (Jn 10.18), and for people who were most undeserving of it (Rom. 5.6-8). This is the type of love that lasts, endures all things for the sake of the one loved (1 Cor. 13.4-8), and covers a multitude of sins (1 Pt 4.8). This is love that is as strong as death, and that no waters can quench (Song of Solomon, 8.6-7).
