29th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Fr. Duncan writes: As winter approaches, it is time to think about putting the heating on. Having been given guidance about this – there are some difficulties. In order to keep the church Covid safe, we are required to have the windows open. Secondly, our heating system has fans to circulate the heat – we are not permitted to use these. What I will do is put the heating on early to warm the church and then turn it off and open the windows before parishioners come in. Because the church will not be as warm as we would like, you will need to keep your coats on during Mass. Let us pray for a mild winter!

This weekend we have the last of our First Holy Communion Masses. These should have taken place last May. The celebrations this year are different, smaller, simpler, but very prayerful. These Masses are by invitation only, as the numbers are strictly limited. You will be able to follow the Masses on the live stream. Please pray for the children and their families. I am very grateful to Jo Marsh and her team of catechists for preparing the children to receive this great Sacrament.

Children's Mass

The Masses especially for the primary school children and their parents, are proving very popular and have been well received. They are very nice celebrations. If you would like to come, it will be necessary to book places for this Mass, as there is a strict limit of space available.

In order to book for this Mass, please go to

Month of the Holy Souls

November is the month of the Holy Souls when we remember especially those who have died and gone before us 'marked with the sign of faith'. Throughout the month Masses will be offered in our church for all whose names are listed on our November Roll of the Dead. These names will be placed in the sanctuary throughout the month. If you would like the names of your deceased relatives and friends included, please take an envelope from the table at the back of the church and return it with your list enclosed to one of the priests or to the presbytery. Your offering may be placed in the envelope.
