Letter from Langdon Street

My dear people

Last Sunday we heard the first of a series of passages from St Matthew's Gospel in which Jesus talks to us through a group of parables which talk about the Kingdom of Heaven. Our Lord is using agricultural images to help people understand his message. Last Sunday we heard the parable of the sower, broadcasting seed which fell into different locations, the edge of the path, stony ground, thorns and finally rich soil. Today we hear three more parables – darnel sown with good seed, the mustard seed and the woman mixing yeast with flour to make dough that can be baked into bread.

Today's parable is Christ's answer to the question so frequently asked: "Why does God permit evil to triumph so often in this world, why are the wicked allowed to prosper?" The triumph of the wicked is short-lived, the reward of the Christian who suffers from their wickedness is everlasting. The very wickedness and injustices of evil-doers are one of the ways that God uses to perfect his elect.

Darnel is a weed that is also known as cockle, tare and false wheat. It grows annually and looks just the same as wheat until the grains appear. The wheat grains are heavy and bend whereas the darnel grains are light and grown straight upwards. The wheat can therefore be identified distinct from the weed, the false wheat. So, in the parable, the wheat and weed, the good and the bad, are allowed to grow together until harvest time when they can be separated. The darnel is tied in bundles to be burnt and the wheat is gathered to be put in the farmer's barn. Our Lord uses the parable to explain how good and bad people live together but the day of judgement will sort out the good from the bad.

The Gospel today gives us to more images. There is the mustard seed which is tiny but grows into a shrub that sometimes grows up to nine feet high, tall enough for birds to nest in. Our Lord is telling us how the Church would have tiny beginnings in Jerusalem but would eventually spread all over the world. There is also the image that would have been familiar with his listeners. I can still remember watching my grandma baking bread and how the dough, left in front of the kitchen range, would expand from being a small lump of dough into a huge amount that filled the whole bowl.

These parables all make the same point, that the Kingdom of Heaven begins in a small way but eventually achieves universal proportions. I always think of the English expression: "from tiny acorns might oaks do grow." The parables are also telling us about the Church, the kingdom of God on earth. To be called into the Church is a grace, which we accept. But membership of the Church does not mean automatic entry into the kingdom. We are taught elsewhere in the Gospels: 'not everyone who says Lord, Lord will enter the kingdom.', Life in the Church is demanding, like the growing of crops. There is constant struggle between the good seed, which is the life of Christ within us, and those evil forces, the weeds, which seek to destroy the kingdom on earth.

Yours sincerely

Parish Priest
